Kanpur: Effective communication is a reflection of inner self of an individual. A majority of the students from rural background are unable to establish good relations in the absence of communication skills. An individual's interpersonal skill can enhance one's personality, giving him immense confidence.

The above mentioned thoughts were shared by Prof Milind Maisahe, department

National conference on 'Presentation and Interpersonal Skills for Effective Communication: Old Traditions and New Challenges' of humanities and applied sciences, IIT Bombay. He was present during the national conference on 'Presentation and Interpersonal Skills for Effective Communication: Old Traditions and New Challenges', held at Allenhouse Institute of Technology, Kanpur.

The conference was a grand success as various other faculty members shared their experiences with the students. Dr Smriti Singh, assistant professor, dept of humanities and social science, IIT Patna, spoke on the role of English language in personality development.
